This pre-application does not guarantee enrollment at The Hope Center, nor does it put your child on a waiting list.

The Hope Center for Autism is a public charter school within the Martin County School District. The Martin County School Board Choice Policy #5113.02 states that school choice is an option which may be available to resident and nonresident students through Controlled Open Enrollment (COE).

Controlled Open Enrollment provides students the opportunity to choose a school that is not at capacity and would not exceed capacity as a result of such assignments.

The Hope Center will have a set number of open slots at the end of the enrollment period. If there are more applications than available slots, then students will be chosen by a random lottery, as required by Florida Statute. All families will be notified within seven days after the last day of open enrollment.
